Its incredible impact on human history is undeniable, motivating giant church leaders like Augustine, Luther and Wesley to become Christians and communicate the "Just by Faith" message to the world. And Romans promises to do the same for all of us who study and apply its vital and timely message.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS? (3) 2009

Every October, November and December we recognize three famous holidays. But what passes for celebration of Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas doesn't always match with what the holiday is truly all about. What do these holidays mean, and are they all really "holy days" or something else? By studying the historical origins of each of these three holidays, and comparing them to scripture, we'll gain an understanding of how each may or may not be holidays that we should celebrate. We'll also provide some practical applications on how to navigate each of these end-of-the-year events.

STRENGTH FOR STRESSFUL TIMES (7) Jan. 2010

We are living in stressful times. As we face the challenges of job loss, an uncertain economy, a world in crisis, the breakdown of the family, the steady decline in general morality and increasing opposition to our faith, we feel increasing levels of stress, anxiety and pressure. In 51 A.D., the Christians in the Thessalonica church were feeling similar, but more significant, levels of stress in their day. It got bad enough to cause them to even question their faith... until the apostle Paul wrote them the letter we now call 2 Thessalonians. He provided truth that strengthened them in their time of stress, and it can do the same for us today as we apply its principles.

DEVOTION AND REDEMPTION (RUTH) (4) July 2010

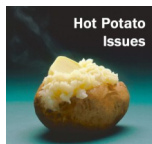

We live in a day when devotion is a hard commodity to find. Few want to hang in there when times get tough, but those who do are often rewarded for it in the long haul. In the Old Testament era of the Judges, a woman stands out above the crowd named Ruth. She lived a life of devotion to God and to other people and was honored for it in ways that not only positively impacted her life, but also the life of every person who has ever lived. Yes, even you! ## HOT POTATO ISSUES (8) Nov 2010

A hot potato is an interesting dilemma. It can look so good with butter and sour cream dripping off it that we want to dig in and eat it. But if we aren't careful, we can easily be burned by it. There are many important issues in the Christian life that are like a hot potato—we want to dig in and handle them but we must do so with care so we aren't burned. We'll look at six big "hot potato issues" in our culture and in the Bible, handling each with biblical care so you can understand and enjoy them.

OLD TESTAMENT FEASTS IN LIGHT OF THE NEW TESTAMENT (3) March 2011

The Israelites worshipped and celebrated God in many ways including through designated annual gatherings known as feasts. Faithful Jews would gather together to remember God and His great works in special ways. But were these celebratory feasts instituted to simply look back at what God had done or were they also designed to help people look forward in anticipation to new realities that would occur in the future? We'll examine the three major feasts of the Old Testament—Passover, First Fruits, and Weeks (or Pentecost)—and understand their meaning and significance in light of the New Testament. This fascinating study will enrich your understanding of the Christian faith by appreciating our roots in Judaism.
